

Disability is everyone's business

Global Disability Summit 2022 Private Sector roundtable

February 17 | 1 pm to 2 pm CET

The economic and ethical rationale for including the world's more than 1.2 billion persons with disabilities as valued colleagues, customers, shareholders, and fellow citizens as we 'build back better' is compelling and increasingly influential. While the pandemic has highlighted inequalities confronted by disabled people worldwide – it has also revealed both the extent to which we are all interconnected and our ability to adapt for our very human shared reality.

The second Global Disability Summit, to be held on 16 and 17 February 2022 and hosted by the International Disability Alliance and the governments of Norway and Ghana, provides an exciting opportunity to explore the potential for business, in partnership with persons with disabilities, to leverage its expertise, innovation and influence to create more efficient and fair labour markets to the mutual benefit of business, people with disabilities and our communities more widely.

We invite you to join us for the pivotal Global Disability Summit 2022 (GDS 2022) private sector roundtable – where leaders from the private sector and leaders of the disability movement will come together to highlight examples of innovative partnerships with business in Africa, Asia Pacific and Latin American – with a particular focus on the role disability confident businesses can play in enabling economic empowerment. The side event is organised under the auspices of the Global Disability Summit 2022.
